

Modern Slavery Policy

Modern Slavery Policy

The Modern Slavery Act 2015 is a UK law that was introduced to combat modern slavery and human trafficking. It includes provisions to increase transparency in supply chains and improve efforts to identify and prevent modern slavery. The Act is built upon several key principles, which are:

1. Prevention: The Act emphasizes the importance of taking proactive steps to prevent modern slavery from occurring in businesses and supply chains.
2. Transparency in Supply Chains: Organizations with a turnover above a certain threshold are required to publish an annual Modern Slavery Statement. This statement outlines the actions they have taken to ensure there is no modern slavery in their supply chains or within their own organization.
3. Identification and Reporting: The Act encourages individuals and organizations to be vigilant in identifying and reporting potential cases of modern slavery to the relevant authorities.
4. Collaboration and Partnership: The Act encourages collaboration between governments, law enforcement agencies, businesses, and civil society organizations to tackle modern slavery effectively.
5. Protection and Support for Victims: The Act recognizes the importance of providing protection and support to victims of modern slavery, ensuring they have access to appropriate services and assistance.
6. Enhanced Penalties: The Act introduces tougher penalties for those found guilty of offenses related to modern slavery, including imprisonment and significant fines.
7. Global Impact: The Act recognizes that modern slavery is a global issue and highlights the importance of international cooperation to address this crime effectively.
8. Due Diligence: Organizations are encouraged to conduct due diligence to identify and mitigate the risk of modern slavery within their supply chains and operations.
9. Training and Awareness: The Act promotes raising awareness about modern slavery and providing training to employees and stakeholders to help them recognize and respond to potential cases.

By incorporating these principles, the Modern Slavery Act 2015 aims to create a comprehensive framework to combat modern slavery and human trafficking in the UK and beyond. It plays a significant role in driving businesses and organizations to take responsibility for their supply chains and actively work towards eradicating modern slavery.

Introduction

Modern Slavery is a term used to encompass slavery, servitude, forced and compulsory labour, bonded and child labour and human trafficking. Victims are coerced, deceived and forced against their free will into providing work or services. Human trafficking is where a person arranges or facilitates the travel of another person with a view to that person being exploited. Modern slavery is a crime and a violation of fundamental human rights.

The Company operates Exhibition stand design and builds which uses replacement parts (which may consist of several sub-parts) which could have been manufactured in any part of the globe.

The Company strictly prohibits the use of modern slavery and human trafficking in our operations and supply chain. We are committed to implementing systems and controls aimed at ensuring that modern slavery is not taking place anywhere within our organisation or in any of our supply chains. We expect that our suppliers will hold themselves and their own suppliers to the same high standards.

Policy Statement

We expect everyone working with us or on our behalf to support and uphold the following measures to safeguard against modern slavery:

We have a zero-tolerance approach to modern slavery in our organisation or our supply chains. The prevention, detection and reporting of modern slavery in any part of our organisation or supply chain is the responsibility of all those working for us or on our behalf. Workers must not engage in, facilitate or fail to report any activity that might lead to, or suggest, a breach of this policy.

We are committed to training relevant employees in modern slavery, how to identify it in practice and how to respond.

We are committed to engaging with our direct suppliers where possible to address the risk of modern slavery in our operations and supply chain.

As part of our contracting processes, where we are able to negotiate the terms of supply we negotiate to include a specific prohibition against the use of modern slavery and trafficked labour and an ability to audit the supplier's organisation for compliance with this policy.

Our recruitment procedures require employment and recruitment agencies and other third parties supplying workers to our organisation to comply with this policy.

Policy Application

This policy applies to all persons working for us or on our behalf in any capacity, including employees at all levels, directors, officers, agency workers, seconded workers, volunteers, interns, agents, contractors, suppliers, external consultants, third-party representatives and business partners.

This policy does not form part of any employee's contract of employment and we may amend it at any time.

Workers must ensure that they read, understand and comply with this policy.

Responsibility for the Policy

The Managing Director has approved this policy and is committed to making available sufficient resources for its implementation and has overall responsibility for ensuring compliance.

The Human Resources Manager through the Managing Director has primary and day-to-day responsibility for implementing this policy, monitoring its use and effectiveness, dealing with any queries about this policy, and auditing internal control systems and procedures to ensure they are effective in countering modern slavery.

Management at all levels are responsible for ensuring those reporting to them understand and comply with this policy and are given adequate and regular training on it and the issue of modern slavery in supply chains.

Reporting Modern Slavery

Employees must notify their line manager and the Human Resources Manager in accordance with the Whistleblowing policy as soon as possible if they have any reason to believe that modern slavery of any form may exist within our organisation or our supply chain, or may occur in the future or have any concerns or suspicions relating to compliance with this policy.

If a person, other than an employee, has any reason to believe that modern slavery of any form may exist within our organisation or our supply chain, or may occur in the future or have any concerns or suspicions relating to compliance with this policy, they must notify as soon as possible the Human Resources Manager.

We aim to encourage openness and will support anyone who raises genuine concerns in good faith under this policy, even if they turn out to be mistaken. We are committed to ensuring no one suffers any detrimental treatment as a result of reporting in good faith their suspicion that modern slavery of whatever form is or may be taking place in any part of our own business or in any of our supply chains. Detrimental treatment includes dismissal, disciplinary action, threats or other unfavourable treatment connected with raising a concern. If you believe that you have suffered any such treatment, you should inform the Human Resources Manager immediately. If the matter is not remedied, and you are an employee, you should raise it formally using our Grievance Procedure.

The HR Connect form on Whitespace Hub can also be used to anonymously report any Modern Slavery concerns or suspicions. This will be escalated directly to the Human Resources Manager to investigate.

Breaches of this Policy

Any employee who breaches this policy will face disciplinary action, which could result in dismissal for misconduct or gross misconduct.

We will terminate our relationship with other individuals and organisations working on our behalf if they breach this policy.

Training and Awareness

Whitespace will provide training to employees and relevant stakeholders to raise awareness about modern slavery, its signs, and how to report any concerns. Training will be integrated into our induction processes and will be regularly reinforced to ensure continued vigilance.

Whitespace will regularly review and update this policy to reflect any changes in legislation, best practices, or our business activities. Our commitment to eradicating modern slavery is unwavering, and we will work tirelessly to ensure that our operations and supply chains remain free from this abhorrent crime.

Review

This policy was last updated January 2025 and will be reviewed January 2026.
